

Marion Civic Orchestra Plans for New Season

Artists whose work has won for them the acclaim of concert audiences in metropolitan music centers will be heard on the third concert series to be presented by the Marion Civic orchestra during the 1936-37 season which will open Nov. 24 in the First Presbyterian church.

In keeping with the objectives of the orchestra sponsors the Women's Symphony board to give the music patrons of Marion and vicinity the best talent available this year's trio of guest artists will mark another step toward the realization of this ambition.

Appearing as a guest singer on the initial program will be Frances Sebel, well known lyric dramatic soprano whose work is recognized as outstanding in operatic and concert roles. Not only is she a vocal artist of rare ability but a pianist as well. She studied in Cincinnati at the College of Music where her voice attracted even more attention than her brilliant piano recitals. During her visit here she will be the guest of Mrs. J. Malcolm Strellitz of Mt. Vernon avenue, a close friend.

Rusinsky Again Directs
Artists for the remaining two concerts of the season will be equally as well known in musical circles as Miss Sebel. Mrs. Strellitz, chairman of the Women's Symphony board, said that the orchestra which again will be under the direction of Abraham Rusinsky of Columbus has been rehearsing for several weeks in preparation for their first program of the season and indications are that this year's programs will be even more outstanding from the viewpoint of entertainment and musicianship than the two preceding seasons.

The sale of tickets for the three concerts will be conducted similar to the preceding ones. Mrs. Strellitz announced in discussion her plans for the year. Admission to the three concerts may be had for $1.50 or single admissions for 50 cents each. Mrs. Earl F. Binart is chairman for the ticket sale, and the tickets for the series will be sold through the board members. Plans also include the establishment of a ticket booth in the business section.

The orchestra, which now numbers 75 players, is made up of a group of musicians from Marion and vicinity who contribute their time and services to the musical advancement of the city. The only compensation received by the orchestra members is their privilege of playing under the direction of Mr. Rusinsky.

Nationally Known Teacher
Mr. Rusinsky is a master musician, violinist, artist and teacher of national reputation and is widely known in musical circles. Born in Russia, he is a graduate of the Warsaw Conservatory and a pupil of Heinrich Leopold Ichniowski and Galkin.

His concert work has taken him from coast to coast and his symphony work included occupying the first violin chair in the Pittsburgh symphony orchestra, the Russian symphony and the Metropolitan Opera house. He has been a teacher of violin and an orchestra director in Columbus for several years.

OFFICIAL VOTE COUNT FINISHED

Only Few Changes Made from First Unofficial Figures

The official vote count completed today by the Marion county board of elections resulted in only seven changes in the unofficial totals for the national state and county officers. There was another change in the vote of the food tax issue.

The largest difference came in the official total for Everett R.

Grady (R) giving him 9,122 votes in the county instead of 10,322 in the unofficial figures. The change was made by the board of elections.

A decrease of three votes came in the total for Joseph T. Ferguson (D) for state auditor cutting his total from 10,815 to 10,812. His opponent Joseph T. Tranter (Republican incumbent) received 9,667.

Harry S. Day (R) received 9,736 instead of 9,738 cutting the lead of his opponent Clarence H. Knibley (D) in the race for state treasurer to 955.

The total for Grant E. Mosier Jr. (R) for congressman dropped from 9,355 to 9,350 increasing the lead of Blaine Fletcher (D) to 1,812.

Another hundred votes was added to the total for D. D. Clifton (R) defeated candidate for county treasurer giving him 798 instead of 7,538. Homer D. Cole (D) incumbent received 12,842 and won officially by 4,804.

The total for Roy H. Williams (P) for state supreme court was increased by five to 6,615, not enough to catch up with the two victors in the county, William L. Hart (R) and George S. Myers (D) who both received over 8,500 votes.

Eight votes were added to the total of George S. Middleton (R) making his official total 746 and increasing his lead in the county over William Hinger (D) to 313 in the race for the Third district appellate court judgeship. Hinger won the office by virtue of heavy pluralities in other counties of the district.

The vote against the repeal of the food tax increased from 4,922 to 4,993. The affirmative vote was 13,056 and the repeal was defeated by a majority of 8,063 votes.

Your Health

BY DR. E. A. COPELAND

Common Cold.

Too little attention is given the common cold. Many fail to appreciate the importance of a cold in its relationship to the general welfare. Every attack of this nature is serious enough to require attention and perhaps medical advice.

Neglect of what, in the beginning, is a simple ailment may lead to a really serious disease like bronchitis, pneumonia or even tuberculosis. It is especially dangerous when it attacks the very young or the aged. Carelessness may lead to a protracted illness or something worse, as I have said.

Many remedies are offered for the cure of this annoying affliction. Usually the remedy has no real value and, indeed, it may be harmful rather than beneficial. Too many who contract colds continue to suffer, and seek medical advice only after serious damage has resulted.

There is no better practice in the beginning of a cold than to give yourself complete rest. If every victim of the common cold resorted to rest in bed, with an abundance of fresh air, warmth, nourishing food and proper hygiene of the mouth and throat, the evil effects would be neutralized at once. Certainly the dangerous complications would be avoided.

I fully realize that it is impossible always to follow this form of treatment. But please do not forget that the victim of a cold must not get overtired, or expose himself to cold and dampness. He should have sufficient hours of rest and plenty of nourishing food. The cold must not be regarded as a trifling experience.

The common cold is quickly spread from one individual to another. It is easy for one person in a household to infect all the other members of the family. For this reason, it is essential that every precaution be taken to prevent the spread. You may be able to get rid of your cold readily, but other members of the family, especially children, may not be so fortunate.

With every cough and sneeze the face should be covered to prevent spreading the infection. Wash the hands frequently and discard all soiled handkerchiefs. The use of paper handkerchiefs is advised because they are easily disposed of, together with the germs found in the nasal discharges. If you have a cold, refrain from kissing the baby and other members of the family.

Respect a cold. Never accept it as a simple and harmless affliction. It is really a menace to your health and the health of your family. Avoid its dangers by observing the simple rules of hygiene.

Answers to Health Queries.

A Constant Reader, Q.—What is the difference between scarlet fever and scarlatina?

A.—They are one and the same disease. The child should be isolated until the fever has entirely disappeared and the rash entirely gone. Your doctor will advise you more definitely.

Presenting the phenomenal facts about GULFPRIDE

THE WORLD'S FINEST MOTOR OIL

THE facts on this page sound hard to believe. But here is the reason why GULFPRIDE—and only GULFPRIDE—can accomplish such results . . .

Gulf begins with selected Pennsylvania crude, refines it to a motor oil that equals the best—then further refines it by the exclusive Alchor process.

Only GULFPRIDE is made by this process—result of 15 years' research—the same scientific research that has made every Gulf product a leader.

Read the facts below. Then drain your dirty summer-worn oil and refill with WINTER GULFPRIDE now. At all Gulf dealers.

AN AMAZING TEST. Bottle No. 1 shows a mixture of 6 famous Pennsylvania motor oils. Bottle No. 2 shows them after being put through Gulf's Alchor process. Bottle No. 3 shows the 20% waste removed from them already highly-refined oils by the Alchor process. This process starts where others stop! That's why GULFPRIDE is the world's finest motor oil.

TOPS IN THE AIR— 8 out of the 11 winners in last year's National Air Races used GULFPRIDE OIL, the identical oil you can buy for your car at any Gulf dealer. This "winner's oil" will take you further before you need to add a cent more to any oil you ever used!

BE PREPARED! CHANGE TO WINTER GULFPRIDE NOW!

Armistice Day Program for Nov. 11 Taking Shape

Ceremony at 11 A. M., Night Parade and "Doughboy" Dedication Being Arranged.

Armistice day will be doubly observed in Marion next Wednesday when the American Legion will sponsor special services on the courthouse steps and a "doughboy" statue will be dedicated by the local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Homage will be paid to the soldiers of Marion county who gave their lives to their country in the World war.

A hush similar to that which came over the battlefields of France 18 years ago will fall over America at 11 a. m. as school children stand at attention and many patriotic citizens pause in their daily duties to honor the country's soldier dead.

Services have been arranged by the American Legion in Marion in which the former soldiers will participate, including members of the local company D, in which many Marion county veterans saw service in the bloodiest sectors of the war. At 10:30 a. m., Wednesday, the veterans will assemble at the Dugout and a few minutes before 11 will march to the courthouse for ceremonies on the south steps.

At 11 a half-minute period of silence will be observed with all the veterans facing the east-towards Flanders field where so many of their comrades lie in peace today. Taps will be sounded by Parks Kennedy, veteran of the 1917 Marion company which went through the St. Mihiel drive from Sept. 12-18, 1918, and fought in the battle of Meuse-Argonne which lasted from Sept. 20 to the minute of the Armistice. Major George T. Goran, Marion attorney, was the commander of the company overseas.

Two replicas of soldiers' graves will be placed on the steps as a part of the ceremonies which, according to J. W. Llewellyn, chairman of the morning program, will symbolize the thousands of rows of crosses in France. The services will be conducted entirely by present or past officers of the Bird-McGinnis Post and will last about 20 minutes. There will be brief talks by the service men.

Lending a martial atmosphere to the rites will be a machine gun emplacement and a rifle squad which will fire a salute. They will be under the direction of Captain H. L. Taylor of the present D company, 166th Infantry of the United States National Guard of Ohio. The talks will be amplified for the public over a loud speaker system donated for the service by D. A. Brown of East Church street. The soldiers will disband at the courthouse following the ceremonies.

The general Armistice day program of the Legion is under the direction of Fred F. Miller, county sheriff. Assisting in the morning program are Mr. Llewellyn and W. H. Willis, deputy sheriff, and in the evening program, Col. T. E. Andrews and L. H. Larsen.

The evening program of the Legion has not been definitely planned as yet, but it has been decided to hold a purely marching parade with no floats. Drill troops of all veterans groups are being invited to join the march. The time and the line of march have not been fixed.

Memorial Dedication. The William Hendricks chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution are arranging impressive dedication services on the afternoon of Armistice day for the memorial bronze statue of a typical "doughboy." The addition of the statue will complete the memorial to the soldiers erected by the chapter opposite the Harding memorial. The presentation will be made by Mrs. J. L. Hoover to Gene Hill, designated by the Legion post to accept the honor for them. The dedicatory talk will be made by Miss Amanda Thomas of Columbus, assistant director of the district D. A. R. The memorial address will be given by R. M. Wilhelm, Marion attorney, and Joe Binkley and Grant Mower III will unveil the statue.

The program, which will start at 4:15 p. m. opposite the Harding memorial, will include selections by the Harding High school band, patriotic songs by Mrs. C. L. Rutherford, recitation of the famed war poem, "Flanders Field" by Miss Carolyn King, invocation by Rev. John A. Carriker of the Forest Lawn Presbyterian church, and the sounding of taps by Parks Kennedy.

The statue was purchased by the chapter at a cost of $1,000, the funds being largely raised through benefit activities. It was designed by E. M. Viqueeney of Spencer, Ind. and has been designated the

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

CHAPTER 45

Years had passed. The man who had been the safe, propping an arm chair against it to keep it in place. In his hand was a tiny switch from which a long wire communicated with the safe. He crossed the room, pressed over the switch, and waited.

There came a dull, muffled rumble, the fur coat bulged outward suddenly; the arm-chair fell over Mahony crossed the room again, pulled aside the torn, singed fur coat, and examined the safe door. The thick iron was cracked completely across; the combination was shattered. In another ten seconds Mahony had that safe door open.

Mahony's heart was beating fast with excitement as he looked into the safe. Inside were masses of papers and documents, and a big, thick, heavy volume. He seized the volume, drew it out of the safe, and began glancing through it. But the first page told him that this volume was what he sought, and his heart gave a leap of exultation.

Every page of that volume contained evidence against Lawson's associates; letters, agreements, receipts, admissions, and every bit of evidence pasted in the book had little comments and observations written beneath it in Lawson's neat handwriting.

Half-way through the book Mahony found the page he sought—the evidence against Billy Ross. He tore it out and carefully burnt it. Then he replaced the book in the safe, left the study, and went down and opened the front door.

Standing in the front doorway he whistled shrilly twice, and three men came hurrying along the pavement towards the house. He stepped down to meet them.

"Detective-Sergeant Manning?" he asked.

"Yes," replied one of the men.

"Inspector Kennedy told you that you'd probably receive this signal from this house tonight," went on Mahony. "Now you'd better come in and take possession. You'll find three men tied up and handcuffed in the hall; leave them there till the Inspector comes. Till then you can amuse yourselves looking through a volume you'll find in the safe upstairs in the study. I'm just going to telephone."

He found the telephone, lifted the receiver, and got through to Inspector Kennedy at Scotland Yard.

"It came off all right," he said. "You'll find all the evidence you want here to convict Lawson and practically the whole of his gang."

"That's fine," said the Inspector. "It seems that I shall get promotion after all. Instead of getting the sack, which I rather feared. Are you going on to the other place now?"

"Yes," answered Mahony. "Are the cars ready?"

"They are," replied the Inspector. "Give me five minutes start and then send 'em along," said Mahony. "Are you going along with them yourself?"

"I am," replied Inspector Kennedy. "I wouldn't miss this for anything."

"Good," said Mahony. "I'll be seeing you soon then."

Swirling the men backed slowly toward the stairs.

"Ad don't try running for it," Mahony said. "I would as soon play you as not."

More carefully this time, Mahony advanced on his charges. He forced them to separate, so that while he was busy with one, the other might not attack him.

From a side pocket of his coat Mahony took a couple of pairs of handcuffs which he snapped on the men's wrists. Then he tied their ankles and thrust them into their mouths. By this time the butler was stirring feebly and trying to sit up; Mahony treated him in the same way.

For the time being he was master of the inside of Lawson's house. He glanced round, went to a small built-in cupboard in a corner of the hall, and took from it a heavy forerunner. Then he made his way upstairs to Lawson's study and crossed the room to the big safe.

For fifteen minutes he worked hard on the safe door and then draped the fur coat over the front

Drake wonders if Katie is Trustworthy as He Has Second Breakfast With Madge

ONE LOOK at Katie's face, as she came into the library bearing my interrupted breakfast tray, told me that Allen Drake had not exaggerated when he said that he had made his peace with our kitchen goddess.

She was fairly bubbling with good spirits, and beaming at both Mr. Drake and me. He must have given her an especially lavish tip, I told myself cynically, beside going out of his way to exercise this deniable charm of manner upon her.

"Here you are, Meesa Graham," she told me as she arranged my tray. "Everything like you had up tray, and here—see some indicated a covered dish—see some of those sardines and pancakes you like so well."

At the moment, I felt that I could not possibly taste the heavy dish she had named, although it is one of Katie's culinary masterpieces and in great demand by the members of the farmhouse family. But I heroically masked my feelings, and spoke with apparent enthusiastic appreciation of my loyal household helper.

"Oh, how lovely, Katie!" I exclaimed. "But," as I lifted the cover of the dish slightly, and looked inside, "you have given me such large portions! I never can eat so much."

"Would you like some assistance?" Mr. Drake drawled with amused eyes.

"Indeed, yes," I said quickly. "Then, Katie," he turned to my grinning housemaid, "if you'll bring me the proper plates and forks, I'll try to help Mrs. Graham leave a clean plate, as no doubt she has been trained to do. And I think there's a small crevice inside me not yet filled with pancakes and sausage, although I tried to do my full duty by them a few minutes ago."

Katie's dancing eyes said that he had done more than his duty, and that she wondered where he had stoked the breakfast he already had eaten. But she evidently still stood in some awe of Mr. Drake, and she withheld the retort she would have made under similar railway to my masculine member of the household save my father; when she alone treats with the household goddess he at once becomes a different man.

"I'm going to get some more of those sardines and pancakes," I said, and then I went to the kitchen.

The house in Clapham was an almost derelict building standing on a plot of waste land. Round the outskirts of the waste land, building operations had been taking place, and a number of houses were in the course of erection, but none of them was yet finished.

Lawson had at once perceived the advantages of those half-built houses as a means of hiding a number of men with little fear of discovery.

Elsa arrived on the scene of the appointment a minute or two early. She had instructions, and knew what to do. With steps that faltered a little despite her resolution, she crossed the dark waste ground to the house, pushed open the front door, and entered.

In a room on the left of the hall a feeble gas jet was burning. It was a sordid room, with faded, damp wallpaper, and rotting wooden uncarpeted floors; the only furniture it contained was a rickety table and two plain wooden chairs. Elsa sat down to wait.

An envelope placed on the mantelpiece caught her attention and she stepped across to it and found it was addressed to herself. Inside was a brief message. It ran: "I may be a few minutes late—T. M."

She vanished upon the word, and we began discussing the cakes. Before we had finished the "second run," Mr. Drake said quietly: "Do you trust Katie absolutely? Do you think, for instance, she could be bribed?"

Snow Drives Ohio College Football Squads Indoors

The venerable tradition that the football games go on regardless of blue noses and frost doesn't mean that the same holds good for practice.

Ohio college football has had ample opportunity to lose on their pillows nights because of the usual crop of injuries, ups and downs, and play mixed with ever present dreams of fierce visaged alumni.

Until yesterday that is for quite a few of the Buckeye state squads faced with chilling winds rain and snow which mounted as high as nine inches at Cincinnati retired indoors.

Coches Russ Cohen look one look at his gridiron at the University of Cincinnati and moaned about prospective "wet going" Saturday against Ohio Wesleyan.

It's bound to affect our passing attack he declared. Further reason for concern for half back Schappie probably will be out of the lineup because of injuries.

Navier university's grid stalwarts also remained indoors.

Heavy snow also blanketed Ohio Wesleyan's practice field so Coach George Gauthier spent the afternoon showing the Bishops motion pictures of previous games and pointing out mistakes.

hoping they'd do better against Cincinnati.

From Wittenberg also came the news that Michigan's Wolverines would use the Lutheran stadium for their final workout of the season on Friday, Nov. 20, the day before their traditional game at Columbus against Ohio State.

Bill Edwards former Wittenberg star center and now coach of Western Reserve inaugurated the practice last week by giving his Red Cats a workout there on their way to Dayton.

One of the few teams which feared not the weather was Wooster Coach L. C. Boies sent the Scots into the mud and snow for a scrimmage to prepare them for unfavorable conditions.

Joe Zankewitz replaced Willie Banks lightweight speed merchant at left half for the Dayton Flyers and John Wirtz was at right tackle—changes which may remain in effect for the Ohio university battle Saturday.

PRESIDENT OF OHIO CONFERENCE REPLIES TO AKRON U. DEAN

Asserts Group's Right To Enforce Its Rulings in Answer to Article.

By The Associated Press
TIFFIN, O. Nov. 5.—The president of the Ohio conference, Ira T. Wilson of Heidelberg college, replied to Dean Fred Ayer of Akron university today that the league has asserted the right to enforce its rules and the spirit of the rule.

Dean Ayer was quoted in the October issue of the "Akron Alumni" as saying that the conference has made itself ridiculous in the eyes of the general public by declaring ineligible three members of the Akron football team now leading the conference race.

Any school that wished to overstep the bounds of the conference rules is at liberty to resign, Wilson said in a statement. Several schools have done this from time to time when they decided to pursue an athletic policy involving the exploitation of their athletes.

The three players declared ineligible are Albert Abdullah Stanley Julius and Carl Lee. At the time of the action by the Ohio conference's athletic committee, Ayer said the ruling also would affect similarly two other members of the Zippers squad.

Akron gained a 60-day delay in enforcement of the ruling which had been made retroactive to September 1933 by appealing under a provision of the conference constitution which gives 60 days leave after a protest is filed.

Wilson in his statement said to day that the dispute which is expected to come before a meeting of the entire Ohio conference membership next month hinged around the word attendance in the one year rule.

Junius and Lee were taking a program so limited in the first semester of last school year that they were not classified as regular students, Wilson declared.

The Ohio conference president said it is now apparent that Akron university officials are attempting to build a team and remain in the conference by stretching the rules beyond all reason, completely ignoring the spirit of the rules and the interpretations built around the letter of the rule by tradition and practice.

The Zippers top the conference race with four wins in as many league contests scoring 71 points to their opponents' 13. Their nearest rivals are Baldwin Wallace and Miami, each of which has won its two starlets. Akron's only defeat this season was a 14-0 beating at the hands of Western Reserve, a non conference foe and Ohio's only undefeated and untied eleven.

Burleigh Grimes Slated for Dodgers' Managership

Announcement of Casey Stengel's Successor Expected Today.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Don't look now but the word is out that the Brooklyn Dodgers finally got around to naming a new manager today. And with much whispering and secrecy yours told confidentially the job goes to Burleigh Grimes, the National league's old spitballer.

Week after week since the Daffy Dodgers ousted Casey Stengel during the last World series, the announcement of his successor has been expected but never forth coming.

The board of directors got together yesterday however ironed out the details and decided on the man to lead the Brooklyn beauties into action in 1935. But instead of announcing it then, Business Manager John Gorman said he had waited until today.

From a list of applicants reported to number more than 100, the report is Grimes who showed his spitball wares with every club in the league except the Reds and Phillies during his long pitching career was selected.

Others who were said to be in the running for the berth were Max Carey, an ex-Dodger pilot, Dutch Reuther and Zach Wheat, two former Brooklyn players. Joe Stupp, current Dodger infielder, Fred Lindstrom who voluntarily retired from the club's roster last season, and Bala Ruth.

Ruth's name entered the lists at the same time as reports popped up that the club, one of the most successful in the big leagues and a standpoint of fan interest and loyalty would be sold. Col. T. L. Huston of Atlanta, was known to have bid for the club, offering a reported price of $1,500,000, on behalf of a syndicate he headed. At that time the word went out that if the deal went through, Ruth would be named manager.

"JUMPING JOE" HURT, EXPECTED TO BE ON SIDELINES SATURDAY

Shoulder Injury May Keep Him Out of Chicago Game in Columbus.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—This year's figures don't give Wisconsin the ghost of a chance against Northwestern Saturday but those of the past offer a glow of hope for the victory starved Badgers.

Along with such able-bodied athletes as he is able to round up Coach Harry Stuhldreher hopes Wisconsin's reputation for unexpected kicking over champion ship apple carts finally will start running for him as it did for his predecessors Dr. Clarence W. Spears and Glenn Thistlethwaite.

Last year the Badgers won only one game out of eight but it was a totally unexpected 8 to 0 triumph over a heavily favored Purdue eleven. Purdue had whipped Northwestern on Friday, Nov. 20, the day before their traditional game at Columbus against Ohio State.

Bill Edwards former Wittenberg star center and now coach of Western Reserve inaugurated the practice last week by giving his Red Cats a workout there on their way to Dayton.

WILLIAMS TOPS HART IN CLOSE COURT RACE

Sandusky Takes Lead With Only Four Precincts Still To Be Counted.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 5.—Official tabulation of all but four of Ohio's 6,000 precincts by the secretary of state today put Judge Roy H. Williams into the lead for the second of two positions on the state supreme court bench.

Judge Williams, of Sandusky, now a member of the court, and William L. Hart, of Alliance, who had served a short term on the bench, had exchanged the lead several times since Tuesday's election.

Tabulation of 2,000 precincts in the western part of the state showed Williams 543 votes and Hart 504. The balance of the precincts were still to be counted.

George S. Myers, secretary of state, said the first precinct, which had polled 1,011,434 and Judge William L. Hart, took the lead with 504 votes. They are Democrats.

President Roosevelt led Gov. Alf M. Landon by 6,000 on the basis of figures of the secretary of state's office and Gov. Martin L. Davis led his Republican opponent, John W. Bricker by 129,111.

DEMOCRATS MUST UNITE THEIR FORCES

Indorsements of both, nine of the NUBS and one of the Townsendites. How the double allegiance of the NUBS will affect the activities of interested political observers.

Face Many Problems
The Democrats in the Ohio legislature faced a welter of problems. Unemployment insurance still is a source of controversy. The relief problem will be up again early in the new year when the present relief bill expires.

Meanwhile the size of the Democratic victory at the polls became more staggering.

President Roosevelt, who had a 7,000 plurality in Ohio over Harbord Hoover in 1932, polled 1,704,859 votes Tuesday against Gov. Landon's 1,128,577, on the basis of figures from all but four of Ohio's 6,000 precincts early today. His margin erased the 600,000 mark shortly after midnight as belated returns from Cuyahoga county piled in. The missing precincts were in this county.

These same returns cut Gov. Davis's lead considerably and gave the county to Bricker, 228,854 to 219,757. Bricker took the lead there after midnight when reports came in from several Republican strongholds.

The secretary of state's office quit tabulating after midnight and the Cuyahoga county officials as of 11:30 p. m.

PENSION EMPLOYEES' HEARINGS OPENED

change in the date and the reason for the change is to assign their cases to a different month in the schedule of annual investigations.

Mr. Geran, in examining witnesses, contended in Mathiot's behalf that no one had been harmed by Mathiot's signing the 10 papers. The state did not pay anyone any pension money that should not have been paid, nor did any pensioner lose any pension due him, Mr. Geran contended.

The witnesses, in addition to Mathiot, were Mrs. Arnold, who denied she ever gave Mathiot any instructions about filling out pension papers, Mrs. Bernice Seikinger, another assistant in the pension office, who said Mathiot laughed at her when she told him he was supposed to copy the signatures of pension recipients on other forms, and W. G. Parlett of Columbus.

Parlett, who is chief investigator in the division of aid for the aged, testified he came to Marion to give instructions regarding the handling of cases but was not permitted to testify further because his instructions had been given to Kirby and not directly to Mathiot.

Mrs. Seikinger said she told Mrs. Arnold about Mathiot's signing of papers, and Mrs. Arnold corroborated this by saying Mrs. Seikinger told her Mathiot was forging persons' names on pension papers. Mrs. Arnold in answer to further questions said she did not take any steps to notify any officials about the report Mrs. Seikinger had brought in her about Mathiot.

NEW STUDY STARTS ON CROP INSURANCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—A system of all-risk crop insurance, advocated by spokesmen for both major parties in the pre-election drive, came to the fore again today.

Secretary Wallace and other members of a special committee named by the President to formulate a crop insurance program for congressional action began a three-day conference.

More than a score of insurance experts were called together today to discuss technical angles of the vast plan to minimize hazards that threaten millions of farmers annually.

Secretary Wallace has said that a report to the President on the program would be ready in December. About the same time definite details for the 1937 soil conservation program of the agricultural adjustment administration are expected to be ready.

OFFICIAL COUNT ON THREE ISSUES

Official vote counts on the three special tax proposals submitted to voters in rural Marion county were announced today by the election board.

The annual school district $24,000 bond issue and an emergency $22 mill levy for 19 years carried by 106 votes, the totals being 203 for and 97 against.

The total vote on the proposed to place school building bonds outside the school district in Precinct was 65 for and 35 against.

The bond question was accompanied by a proposal to levy three and one-half mills a year during the life of the bonds for operation expenses.

While community voted 134 to 66 in favor of a three and one-half mill levy for five years for street bonds.

NEW DEALERS PLOT BILLS FOR CONGRESS

being in communication with the President, emphasizing that the new deal would be a success.

The extent to which cooperation can be realized depends, naturally, on the nature and scope of the new deal program. For all the Democratic alone and house majorities the divisions along economic lines will maintain in this congress as surely as in the last.

Will Roosevelt be able to convert a hostile "right" to a friendly "left" in the new congress, or to utilize a "left" from which he enjoyed substantial support for legislation? Specifically, what will be recommended to attack the problems the invalidated NRA and AAA were designed to solve?

In the campaign, the President committed himself to a starting principle in direct contrast to what he considered necessary four years ago. "The emergency is over," he said. So in framing his legislative program he presumably will use a far different base than in the "hundred days" session of 1933, from which arose so much legal difficulty and protracted bitter dispute.

Balanced Budget Promised
It would seem that some of the recommendations made in the Philadelphia Democratic convention and in campaign speeches constitute a starting point for the congressional session.

What do these show? First, the President pledged a gradually balanced budget, not by increased taxes but from increased income derived from recovery.

Some tax revision is slated. Treasury officials speak only of removing "inequities." At least one wing of presidential conferees, personified by Chairman Jesse Jones of the RFC, expects adjustments of the 1935-36 surplus tax act to relieve burdened corporations and to encourage replacements of plant and machinery.

Second, much consideration has been given to altering the social security act. Details have been guarded, but a main uncertainty about it has centered on the eventually planned "reserve fund" of $47,000,000,000. There is outspoken sentiment, too, for a new attempt to exempt firms and employees covered by private pension plans from the operation of the government program.

Third, the final answer to farm problems has to be devised. Mr. Roosevelt especially promised efforts to help farm tenants become self-sustaining and to find an operable crop insurance plan. Secretary Wallace wants an "ever normal granary" system.

Further, the Administration has emphasized repeatedly that there is need for better wages and lessening of working hours called "over-long."

tories. Many women with children in their arms took shelter in subway.

Business houses in Madrid hastily placed heavy drapes over plate-glass windows to prevent breakage from the jarring of the suburban bombardment.

Government commanders expressed confidence their recently strengthened air force could hold its own in combat with insurgent fighting squadrons.

Official sources asserted the injured Fascist pilot who was sent to a hospital was an Italian and claimed the insurgent plane which was destroyed by fire to be of German manufacture manned by Germans.

FOUR STATES ACT TO GET SECURITY FUNDS

Three Others Defeat Pension Issues With One Fight Still Undecided.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Constitutional amendments authorizing them to take part in the federal social security program had been ratified today by Kansas, Florida, Louisiana and Colorado, although old age pension plans were headed for defeat in three other states.

Eleven other states had passed upon 24 proposed amendments, while a host of constitutional changes were left in doubt elsewhere by incomplete tabulations.

Voters in Nevada, Washington, and Oregon apparently had rejected initiative and referendum proposals for old age benefits. South Carolina returns showed indecision on a similar amendment.

Liquor questions were settled by ballot in four states, while a wide range of tax measures were approved or rejected by voters in all corners of the country.

Oklahoma clung to its state prohibition statutes, although North Dakota decided to permit the sale of liquor for the first time since 1908.

In Texas a proposal for placing liquor in the hands of the state was trailing far behind, and California decisively defeated a local option scheme.

Amendments authorizing an increase in the public debt, tax exemption for homes worth less than $10,000, and a rise in income taxes to 10 per cent, were approved in North Carolina.

Michigan piled up an overwhelming lead against proposals for exempting foodstuffs from a 3 per cent sales tax and replacing property taxes with an income tax.

Ohio, however, eliminated sales taxes on food purchases for home consumption. California voters threw out measures for taxing chain stores and abolishing personal income taxes.

A graduated income tax amendment was lost in Washington, and Minnesota defeated a plan for removing state real estate taxes.

STORK RACE DECISION AWAITS TOMORROW

By The Associated Press

TORONTO, Nov. 5.—Six Toronto mothers will ask an elderly Ontario justice tomorrow what the chances are of getting paid for their 10 years of childbearing.

Some of them have been living on charity, even to the point of charity hospitalization during their almost annual confinements. None has a husband earning anywhere near enough money to fall within the income tax brackets.

All have made claims for the money Charles V. Millar bequeathed to encourage childbearing, and all are wondering how much their babies are worth. It depends upon what Mr. Justice Middleton decides.

If he should rule that the six mothers, each claiming nine eligible offspring, are entitled to divide the $500,000, request that would make each child worth approximately $8,333 to its mother.

IN BABY DERBY

Mrs. Albert Smith, wife of a Toronto fireman, is 31 years old but has had nine children in 10 years. Six of the children are still alive. She is an entrant in Toronto's $50,000 baby derby. (International News Photo) morning and remain about a week before leaving on a sailing vacation in southern waters. He has an engagement in Washington Saturday to dedicate a statue to John J. Jusserand, former French ambassador in Rock Creek park.

Scores of telegrams and letters still were coming in to the President's home today congratulating him on his reelection.

Heartened by Missions
In a statement last night expressing appreciation for the great number of messages received, he said:

"I find myself nearly buried by an avalanche of thousands of letters and telegrams. It is heartening to have this additional assurance that we are going forward together."

I would like to thank each of you individually for your confidence and pledges of loyal support. Will each of you accept this as my acknowledgment of my thanks for your message?

The President took a short ride over to his nearby Val-Kill cottage after witnessing the christening of the youngest daughter of Mrs. James Roosevelt Jr.

the last races of the famous senatorial "old guard" which once dominated the senate chamber under the chairmanship of such men as Watson, Reed and Borah.

Moreover, Tuesday's election made certain that, unless the solid south breaks up or a reformation of party lines occurs, the Democrats will have control of the senate throughout President Roosevelt's second term, and probably until 1941.

The size of the Democratic majorities raised problems for leaders who will have to try to weld them into an efficient legislative machine. Past experience has taught them three majorities are prone to split into factions and blocs.

As the tally continued on the governorship, of which 33 were at stake in Tuesday's balloting, Democratic candidates had captured 23 and were battling hard for two of the three chairs still in doubt.

In North Dakota, Gov. Walter Welford, Republican, trailed slightly behind William Langer, Independent.

La Follette Wins
Gov. Philip La Follette, Progressive, was decisively in Wisconsin, and Elmer Benson, Farmer-Labor, in Minnesota.

Candidates from the party standard bearers down, began a period of relaxation from strenuous campaigns. President Roosevelt expressed appreciation for an "avalanche" of congratulatory greetings with President Roosevelt, who had exchanged courteous greetings with President Roosevelt, expected to "go duck hunting in a few days."

The stock market experienced a buoyant wave yesterday, which pushed some securities to a five-year high. Heavy selling concentrated only on public utility shares.

Secretary Hall proclaimed a continuation of America's "good neighbor" policy, which he declared was aimed at peace and neutrality.

From French, Italian and Austrian capitals came word that officials were gratified to learn American foreign policy was to continue without interruption.

2 HELD IN STRANGLE KILLING IN NEW YORK

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Two men faced police questions today as detectives strove to solve the hotel room caroling of E. Walton Ford, 25-year-old interior decorator formerly of Roanoke, Va.

Police freed eight other suspects rounded up within a few hours after Ford's body, trussed with lamp cord, radio wire, and a belt, was found on his rumpled bed in a fashionable midtown hotel yesterday.

Two neckties were tightly wound about his throat, a deep gash cut across his forehead, bed and floor were blood spattered. Police surgeons said strangulation caused death.

Investigators discounted robbery as a motive for the killing, although two men, intercepted by the hotel clerk as they attempted to leave the building about the

DEMOCRATS BOOST LEAD IN ASSEMBLY

Only Five of 36 Senate Members Republicans; Foes Have 66 Margin in House.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 5.—An overwhelmingly Democratic general assembly will enact legislation for Ohio during the 1937-38 biennium. Democrats increased a margin of power in the senate that left only five Republicans among the 36 members. In the 124-member house, a Republican majority of one was wiped out to give the Democrats an edge of at least 50.

Eight districts were unrepresented. The new assembly, including 14 senate incumbents and at least 80 house incumbents, will go to work in January with pay raises of $1,000 to $2,000.

Senate Leader Paul P. Fodor, who will become lieutenant governor Jan. 1 and presiding officer of the senate, will get a pay hike from $1,500 to $3,000.

The present assembly authorized the pay raises. It still technically is in a special session, which started in September 1935.

In order to make amendments in the constitution approved by voters in Tuesday's election, a special session of the legislature is expected to be called.

Amendments bar an excise tax on food consumed in the home and ban double liability on bank stock. Nine of the senate incumbents, all but one Republican, failed to win another term. Twenty-one members of the present house also fell by the wayside. Only one was a Democrat.

The house, which has been represented by three women, will continue to have the same number.

By The Associated Press

The others registered as Angelo Parello and Angelo Tordino of Cleveland, and Joe and Mike Hazzaworth and L. V. Knepfer of Mansfield.

Others are said to be the worst natural enemy of ducks.

Some of the catfish are kept in the Marion county hatchery. The last two shipments were divided between Wadon, Ruckel, Bowling Green, Montgomery and Prospect townships.

SAN FRANCISCO FOOD CUT THREAT AVERTED

Warehouse Men Agree To Move Perishable Produce as Strike Spreads.

By The Associated Press
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 5.—The throttling of American maritime trade increased throughout the nation's ports today as an immediate threat to San Francisco's food supply was averted. Union warehousemen agreed to move perishable fruits and vegetables to the Warehousemen's Union of the wholesale grocery industry, voiced hope the warehousemen's strike here would be settled before the week-end, the threat of a general strike of east coast warehousemen was heard in New York.

Alaskan ports faced an immediate food shortage. Authorities in Honolulu rushed preparations to cope with any violence that might arise.

The warehousemen's strike here is separate from the maritime strike that started on this coast and spread to ports rimming the United States and to territorial ports. The Warehousemen's union is an affiliate of the International Longshoremen's association, one of seven major unions involved in the maritime walkout.
